Washington State Law ESSB 6413

The state of Washington recently signed into law a bill that requires manufacturers or other persons that sell firefighting personal protective equipment (PPE) to provide written notice if the firefighting PPE contains perfluoralkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) and the “reason PFAS are added to the equipment.” In compliance with the requirements of ESSB 6413, Honeywell First Responder Products is providing the following information for Honeywell First Responder firefighting PPE.

The Washington law defines firefighting PPE as “any clothing designed, intended, or marketed to be worn by firefighting personnel in the performance of their duties, designed with the intent for the use in fire and rescue activities, including jackets, pants, shoes, gloves, helmets, and respiratory equipment.”

Based on the information provided by our suppliers, PFAS is used in component parts in technical fabrics products for water repellency and to meet structural fire-fighting gear performance standards, such as NFPA 1971 (Standard on Protective Ensembles for Structural Fire Fighting and Proximity Fire Fighting) in the Honeywell First Responder Products listed in Annex A.
