

Important Update: Customer Portal Transition

On May 22, 2025, PIP Global Safety announced the acquisition of Honeywell's Personal Protective Equipment business. Since then, our teams have been working carefully to integrate our operations while ensuring continued support for our customers.

As part of this transition, we are currently developing a new, advanced PIP customer portal. This future platform will improve access to product images, marketing materials, and other essential support resources. Our priority is to deliver a high-quality solution that brings real value to your daily work.

From May 22nd, 2026, until the new portal is launched, our team will remain fully available to support you. For the most up-to-date marketing assets, please continue to contact your regular regional representative or email globalmarketing@pipglobalsafety.com.

We will continue to keep you informed and share regular updates as we approach the launch of the new platform.

Thank you for your understanding and continued partnership.

Kind regards,
PIP Global Safety
